七、閱讀測驗 (8%)

Do you know what problems teenagers have? First, they are afraid they don't have any friends. For them, friends are more important than parents. Most of them don't listen to their parents, but they follow what their friends tell them. For example, they smoke because their friends ask them to do. If they turn down their friends, they won't have friends.

Second, they care about their appearance. They are worried they aren't tall enough. They may be laughed at if they don't look pretty or handsome. When they have acne on their faces, they may lack confidence in themselves.

Third, they don't know how to communicate with their parents. They don't think their parents understand what they like or want. They have the generation gap with their parents. They like to spend more time being with friends, but their parents think they should spend more time studying.
