What is a triathlon? A triathlon is a kind of race. In a triathlon, each competitor swims, cycles, and runs over very long distance. The competitors must do the three parts without any break. When they finish swimming and get to the first transition area, they change their clothes and shoes, get their bicycle, and go on to the next stage of the race. Then they arrive at the second transition area, change their clothes and shoes again and run for the last stage. When anyone crosses the finish line first, he or she wins the race. Usually in a triathlon, there are aid stations on the course. The competitors can get food and drinks from them when they pass by. This is not an easy sport. The competitors need to be good at swimming, cycling, and running at the same time.

Billy has wanted to be a cook since he was young. Every time he tastes a great dish, he feels happy. He hopes that he can make people happy as well, so he wants to be a cook in the future.

Billy works in a restaurant now, but he isn't a cook. He is just an apprentice. He has to go to work earlier than the cooks, and he also has to clean the kitchen after they leave. He works almost 14 hours a day in the kitchen, but he still isn't allowed to cook. He can only wash and cut the vegetables, and do the dishes every day.

It's quite boring and tiring, but Billy never gives up. He knows that basic training is very important, and he really wants to do well. He believes his dream will come true soon.

The Amazon Rainforest Fires and Us

We all know trees are very important to our earth. There are millions of trees in the Amazon rainforest in Brazil. With thousand kinds of plants, birds and animals live there, it is a living library of the earth. The Amazon rainforest keeps water cycle balanced and some of the air we breathe is from there. However, Brazilian government wants to make money by using the forest land, so they burn down trees. We call such human activity deforestation. Wildfires are a natural disaster, but the ones in Amazon rainforest this year are not. People burn down the trees to clear the land for business, such as building farms and digging coal from the ground. More than 72,000 fires have happened this year in August 2019, which is 83% more than the same time of 2018. Thousands of trees are now gone in the fires. Many species of plants and birds are seriously endangered. Amazon rainforest fires is one of the largest environmental threats ever known to man, world leaders and many organizations are asking people to help in any way they can. Donating to organizations, such as Amazon Watch and World

Wildlife Fund, is one way to support from far away. These organizations work hard on stopping human activities on environment. If nothing else, signing up a petition to send a message that the Amazon fires need help. You can also post what you think on social media and hash-tag #PrayforAmazonas and #AmazonRainforest to get public attention. To do nothing is the only not-so-great answer.
