In the art world, many artists with "weak" bodies have shown us a "strong" power in their great works of art. Take Frida Kahlo for example. She was a healthy girl until she was knocked down by a bus at the age of twelve. Much of her body was seriously hurt, but her mind wasn't. In her paintings, we can feel her strong love of art and life. Another example is Christy Brown. He was born in bad health, and the only part of his body that could move was his left foot. However, using his only foot, he was still able to write and draw wonderfully. In his autobiography, Brown wrote what happened in his life and how he began to draw pictures with his left foot. And don't forget Stevie Wonder. He became blind soon after he was born, but he is now a popular singer and songwriter.

These artists with "weak" bodies bring us many good things and much hope with their "strong" minds. Their stories tell us that the most important thing in life is not what we have, but what we make of it.

- 46.() What is the writer trying to say?
 (A) History always repeats itself.
 (B) Art is the best medicine for a weak mind.
 (C) We should try to make the best use of our lives.
 (D) It takes more than hard work to make a great artist.

- 47.() What does autobiography mean?
 (A) A movie about great writers' lives.
 (B) A book of a person's life by that person.
 (C) A videotape that teaches how to write stories.
 (D) A picture with the painter's name on the bottom.
