To Whom It May Concern,

You are not going to like what I have to say, but I'm going to tell you anyway. Your new, expensive smartphone doesn't work as you say it does. What's worse, the way you treat your customers is terribly lacking.

Before I got my hands on the latest model that everyone was waiting for, I __31__ a loyal user of your products. I had owned every one of your phones, and I had thought they were the best phones ever made. __32__ When I first took it out of the box, it had taken me over five minutes to turn it on. Then, as I used it, it would get so hot that I couldn't even hold it.

Finally, it had stopped working after only a few days.

Since all this had happened while it was still under warranty, __33__. I explained everything that had taken place, but they said they couldn't help me. They told me I had had to contact your company directly. I tried, and each time, I was told my phone was fine and not to worry. They made me feel as if it had been my problem the phone wasn't working. Not once had any of them offered to change my phone for a new one.

Now, what I want is not a new phone but my money back and an apology. I hope you will do the right thing. If not, you'll never hear the end of this.

Sincerely,

Matt Appel

I used to think the world would be difficult for my little Lilith. That's because she's deaf. Although she can't hear out of either ear, she is able to form words and sounds with her mouth. She also knows a bit of sign language, for she has taken classes since we realized she'd had a problem.

Well, my feelings changed after we'd gone to the big famous amusement park in our state. We'd had the trip planned for a long time because we had promised to celebrate Lilith's birthday there. Everything there was new to us, but we were glad that Lilith was happy and having a fun time. Then, she saw her favorite cartoon character and began jumping up and down. She wanted to take a picture with her, so we went over and waited in line. When it was Lilith's turn, we told the character that our daughter was deaf. She nodded in understanding, and then turned to Lilith and said hello in sign language. She also signed her name and that it was a pleasure to meet her. When Lilith saw that, her jaw dropped because she hadn't expected her favorite character to be able to "talk" to her. We hadn't either, and we hadn't ever seen Lilith that happy before. It really made our day, and it's something we'll never forget. What's more, we don't worry as much about Lilith's future as we used to.
