(I) 31-33

Let's talk about the history of croissants before we learn how to make it. My grandma baked croissants for the family often before. I always thought they were French(法國), but they were from Austria (奧地利). In 1683, Austria was at war with the Ottoman Turks (奧圖曼土耳其人). One evening, some Austrian bakers heard the Turks digging a tunnel under the city. They quickly told the soldiers so they could get ready and save the city. To celebrate their success, the bakers created a special snack—croissant.

Croissants are made of flour and lots of butter. They have been mostly in the shape of a crescent since they were created. Because a crescent was a symbol on the flags of Ottoman Turks, the bakers decided to bake croissants in this shape.

I've shared my popular recipe with many people since I started teaching. However, if you are interested in learning more about croissants and my recipe, don't miss my baking class!

Mom: Where are you? Did tennis practice run late?
Mark: No. I'll be home. I'm at the supermarket buying some snacks and drinks for the Nina's welcome party tonight.
Mom: Well, since you are already there, please pick up some food.
Mark: Of course. What do you want me to get?
Mom: Just some essentials— eggs, rice, bread, meat, and a few ingredients that I need for breakfast tomorrow. I give you a shopping list.
Mark: Ok, I don't have enough money on me.
Mom: That's not a problem. You can pay with your phone at the supermarket. I'll transfer you some money through PX Pay. I also give you enough for your snacks you're getting.
Mark: Wonderful. Thanks, Mom.
Mom: By the way, your friend, Alice, called you an hour ago.

Do you send messages and stickers to your friends on LINE? Do you know you can do more than that with the app? Here are several useful and meaningful uses for LINE.

To start with, LINE can save your life when you are in serious danger. For example, in 2016, a man from Taiwan almost died after his boat turned over in the ocean. Luckily, he was saved because he sent a message to his friend on LINE before he fell into the water.

LINE can also be used to raise money for those poor people.

Take the people in Kumamoto (熊本市) for example. Their town was hit hard by two earthquakes in April 2016, and it needed a lot of money to recover from them. Therefore, they created cute LINE stickers. When anyone bought the stickers, the money will be given to those poor people in Kumamoto.

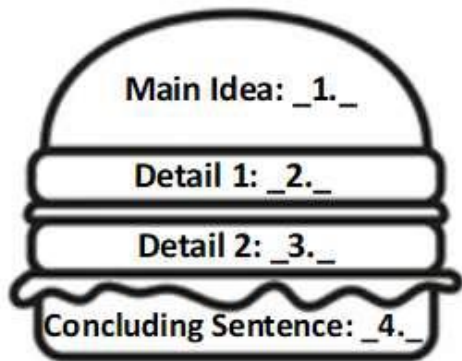

As you can see, LINE is more than just an app for sending messages and stickers. It can also save lives and raise money when it is used wisely.
