Before Christmas, Christmas hang stockings by their fireplace. While the children are sleeping, Santa Claus puts candy in their stockings. This tradition started almost 200 years ago, and we still do it today. There's a story about this.

Many years ago, a poor man lived with his daughters. One night, the man's daughters washed their stockings. They had to dry their stockings, so they put them in front of the fireplace. Then they went to bed. Santa Claus wanted to help this family, so he came and put gold in the girls' stockings. That's why we hang stockings today. However, if you're not good, he'll put coal in your stocking!

The biggest Christmas tradition is the Christmas tree. Do you know why we use pine trees on Christmas? Ancient Europeans liked pine trees because they were green all year round. They also believed that pine trees kept away ghosts. Later, people used pine trees as Christmas trees.

In the USA, Christmas trees only become popular about 180 years ago. At first, many Americans thought they were strange. However, they caught on after several years. Today, Millions of homes have Christmas trees during the winter. They are a symbol of joy, peace, and love all around the world.
