Cans of Food

Andre's wife, Kate, is visiting her mother in New York. She left this morning, and she won't be back until next week. Before she left, she bought a lot of cans (罐) of food so Andre could prepare his own meals. She bought cans of soup, tuna fish, chili, spaghetti, and vegetables. She bought enough food for the whole week.

Kate is a great cook, and she prepares all the meals for the family. Andre doesn't cook, so she had to show him how to use the microwave (微波爐) and the electric can opener (電動開瓶器). She left the can opener on the kitchen table and told him to be sure to put the food in plastic containers (容器) once (一旦) he opened the cans.

Poor Andre! He thinks that he should open all the cans of food and put the food in plastic containers. He doesn't understand what his wife meant. She meant that he should put the uneaten portion (未吃的部分) of food in plastic containers.

For the past hour, Andre has been opening cans of food and putting it in plastic containers. He's frustrated (挫折) because there aren't enough containers for all the food. He needs to go to the store to buy more, but he doesn't want to leave the opened cans of food on the table because the cat might eat the food or it might spoil (腐壞).
