A long time ago, people didn't know much about the world. When they met difficult things, they asked the gods for help. The Romans believed there were many gods and they took care of some animals or plants.

For example, Apollo was the god of the sun. He was really handsome. People believed he used his chariot to make the sun go up and down every day. Apollo had to work every day, and he lived a really busy life.

The Romans also believed Ceres was the goddess of plants. She made trees, flowers and other things grow well for farmers. She would bring enough rain and good weather. She was very important for farmers.

The name "Jupiter" means "father." He was the greatest god. He ruled all of the other gods and people. He was the god of light and sky. His English name is "Jove." If you hear someone say "By Jove," He's talking about Jupiter.
